

Frequently Asked Questions

GENERAL

What is NUS College?

NUS College is the honours College of NUS. NUS College's broad-based interdisciplinary curriculum, residential life programme, and flagship impact experience and global pathways programme complement a student's major studies. Although NUS College students will belong to a degree-bearing college, faculty or school in NUS, they will take part of their common curriculum and elective requirements at NUS College (see Academics page), and live in the NUS College residential wings. This gives NUS College students the opportunity to form a close-knit community with peers from more than 60 majors across NUS, working closely with and alongside NUS College faculty members.

Does NUS College have its own majors?

NUS College does not have its own majors, instead, NUS College will offer an innovative interdisciplinary common curriculum. This is complementary to your chosen major, which you will pursue at your home college, faculty or school.

Do I need to apply for NUS College to graduate with an honours degree?

Not at all, students at NUS who are not in the NUS College programme are also able to obtain honours degrees in their majors, given that they meet the specific requirements of the Honours track in their course. NUS College is referred to as an "honours college" (a concept borrowed from US universities) as it is committed to small seminar-style classes, close student-professor relations and more opportunities for interdisciplinary academic rigour.

Are there scholarships offered in NUS College?

Yes. There are plenty of scholarship and financial aid options available. More information can be found here.

Can I join NUS College in my second or third year?

No. The NUS College curriculum is designed for students to complete across four years. Hence, all students of NUS College must join in their first year.

Are school fees for NUS College the same as NUS?

There are two fee components for NUS College students:

Tuition Fee – As NUS College students will pursue a major in a home college, faculty or school, tuition fees will be pegged to the student's home college, faculty or school at NUS. For more information on tuition fees, click here. Do take note that no additional tuition fees will be charged for NUS College courses.

Residential Fee – NUS College students are required to live on campus, in one of the NUS College residential wings, for a minimum of two years to benefit from the NUS College residential experience. Students will pay the prevailing rate for the room and meal plan applicable. More information can be found here.

Is financial aid available?

Yes, all NUS College students will have access to the financial aid options available for NUS students. Please click here to find out more.

In addition to the qualifying for financial aid packages offered by NUS, these NUS College students may also be eligible for the Tan Chew Char Grant and Student Assistance Fund. No separate application will be required.

Are NUSC courses more challenging than non-NUSC courses, and is it more difficult to get a good grade?

NUSC is an honours college for students who wish to enhance their degree. We expect NUSC students to (subjectively) feel challenged in our classes for various reasons, including the larger extent of interaction with instructors; but as a matter of what the (objective) data tells us, NUSC students do very well in NUSC courses, including grades wise. Our students are engaged and seek help when needed, from the instructors and from peers. NUSC regards the out-of-classroom discussions between students from different faculties as integral to the student learning experience.

NUSC courses do not implement the NUS grades distribution, and this is according to NUS policy, since the enrolment in each class is small. Grading is according to academic standards.

If I apply to NUS indicating my first choice as Dentistry, Medicine, Music, Nursing, or Pharmacy, can I still indicate my interest in NUS College and apply for it?

Yes, you may still indicate interest to apply for NUS College, if you have also indicated a course that is compatible with NUS College among your eight choices. To illustrate, suppose an applicant applies to NUS College with the following course choices, and is found suitable by NUS College. The table below provides the possible outcomes.

Rank	Course	Compatible with NUS College	Outcome 1	Outcome 2
1	Medicine	NO	Offered (without NUS College)*	Not offered
2	Psychology	YES	Not offered	Offered (with NUS College)
3	Social Sciences	YES	Not offered	Not offered

*For students who ultimately matriculate with the NUS Yong Loo Lin School of Medicine, NUS College offers an “NUSC Experience” certificate to a few selected students who applied to NUS College with Medicine as their first choice major. To help these students manage both the NUSC and Medicine programmes, they read fewer NUSC courses, but are expected to stay in the NUSC residential wings and be actively involved in the College and out-of-classroom activities over the course of about two years. Students will be selected based on their application to NUS College and those shortlisted will be notified after they have received their offer to read Medicine.

Music is now a course compatible with NUS College. How do I apply?

You should apply for admission to Yong Siew Toh Conservatory as per their requirements. During your admissions interview with the Conservatory, you should mention that you are interested in applying for NUS College. The admissions team will make their recommendations of shortlisted candidates for the Conservatory with NUS College and relay their list to us. We will contact the shortlisted candidates to take a written assessment and admission interview with us. Information on how to apply to the Yong Siew Toh Conservatory can be found here.

Can those enlisting into National Service this year apply to NUS College?

Yes. Applicants who are entering National Service may apply. If accepted, they will enrol when they have completed National Service (i.e. deferring their matriculation). Their fees will be pegged to the year they accept the admissions offer to NUS and are admitted to NUS College.

I was accepted into NUS before my National Service and now, I would like to apply for NUS College. How should I go about this?

For those who have already been offered and accepted into a course at NUS, the procedure is to put in a new application if you are interested in NUS College. If you wish to keep the major that you had accepted, it is important that you specify the same major in your new application, and, please do not enter any other choices for your major. Alternatively, if you wish to change your major, you may also apply with new choices.

It is important to note that you will not lose your place in the course you have already accepted if you did not receive an offer for your new application. However, if you are given an offer with your new application, the new offer will supercede your previous acceptance. In order to secure your place in NUS, you will need to accept the new offer.

How are students selected?

NUS College evaluates all our applicants in a thorough, holistic process. We ask each applicant to submit academic results from recent years of study, a record of past co-curricular involvements and personal pursuits, and to complete some writing sections (short questions and one essay).

Shortlisted students will be invited to an interview so that the Admissions Committee can learn more about their interests and potential fit for NUS College.

Will there be any interviews or tests involved?

Interviews are an important part of NUS College's admissions process. Shortlisted applicants will be invited to an interview.

What are NUSC graduation requirements?

Details on the NUS College curriculum and how it interacts with your degree can be found below.

To receive an NUS College graduation certificate, you will need to:

- Complete the NUS College courses required for pairing with your major,
- Fulfil the compulsory Global Pathways requirement,
- Complete your degree programme with at least Honours (Merit), and
- Fulfil the compulsory two-year residential requirement at NUS College.

Does NUSC accept transfer students?

Yes, NUSC accepts transfer students from NUS as well as other institutions, and does so only for the Semester 1 intake. However, the candidates must first be accepted by their respective degree-bearing faculty in NUS and be assessed through the NUSC admissions exercise.

Do note that all NUSC students must start as Year 1, Semester 1 students and fulfil the NUSC graduation requirements, which includes obtaining an honours degree from their degree-bearing faculty. If you are an existing NUS student and wish to transfer into NUSC, you may only do so if you are changing your degree programme. In that case, all the credits that you have previously obtained within NUS will no longer count toward your GPA and there may be implications on fee subsidies during the candidature of your programme.

For more information, please see the transfer requirements, and note the corresponding application period (under 'Important Dates').

I am an RNS who has accepted a place in NUS College, but I was not successful in my scholarship application. Can I reapply for scholarships?

Yes. NUS College has a number of scholarships that we award to each cohort. We offer a limited number of these in advance and the remaining in the year of matriculation. RNS who have accepted a place in NUS College but have not been successful in your scholarship application may reapply for scholarships, and it is recommended that this be done in the year of matriculation. The degree-bearing faculties may interview you for the scholarship application. NUS College will review your file from the year of your application, and make a decision based on our holistic criteria.

I have accepted my NUS offer with NUS College and am matriculating in the coming year. What do I need to do?

Congratulations and welcome to the NUS College community! We have a number of exciting activities lined up for you. However, the most important thing you need to do is to register for housing in the NUSC residences, and accept the housing offer, following the timelines provided to you over email. NUSC is a faculty with a residential component and all Year 1s must stay on campus as part of the NUSC graduation requirement. If you do not register for housing by the deadline, you will not be able to secure housing in NUSC, which means you will not be able to fulfil the NUSC graduation requirement and cannot enrol as an NUSC student.

MAJORS AND CURRICULUM

What majors can be paired with NUS College?

The NUS College curriculum and experience can be paired with over 60 majors offered by colleges, faculties and schools across NUS. The exceptions are Dentistry, Medicine, Music, Nursing, and Pharmacy. You may find out more here.

How does the NUS College curriculum fit into my NUS undergraduate journey?

The NUS College curriculum is meant to enhance the basic NUS degree and is designed to interface well with other programmes and course requirements at NUS. Like other NUS students, you will fulfil a portion of your courses at your home faculty, primarily courses that fulfil your major requirements. However, students will be able to complete all NUS General Education (GE) requirements in NUS College, as well as most faculty-specific common curriculum courses.*

NUS College students will be able to complete all elements of the common curriculum for the College of Humanities and Sciences (CHS) and most for the College of Design and Engineering (CDE).*

What is the difference between the common curriculum in NUS College and NUS?

The NUS College curriculum consists of specially curated foundational and common courses, interdisciplinary electives and a flagship team-based project. A key difference between courses in NUS College compared to the common curriculum courses in NUS is the small class size. This allows for intimate seminar-style learning where students get to interact more meaningfully with their professors. Furthermore, unlike common curriculum classes in your home faculty, your peers will be from different majors and faculties, facilitating the exchange of diverse perspectives and ideas in the classroom.

How many courses must I take as part of the NUS College Curriculum?

Students will fulfil 14 courses (56 units) as part of the NUS College curriculum, comprising 7 common foundational courses, 6 interdisciplinary electives and finally, students will consolidate their learning through the capstone Impact Experience Project (IEx). Find out more about our curriculum here.

Will I need to take extra courses as an NUS College student?

Not at all! The NUS College curriculum allows students to complete all NUS General Education (GE) requirements in NUS College, as well as all elements of the common curriculum for the College of Humanities and Sciences (CHS) and most for the College of Design and Engineering (CDE). As for students from other faculties, NUS College courses will substitute a portion of their unrestricted electives.

Can I take a double major/degree while being in NUS College?

Yes, there are a variety of pre-packaged multidisciplinary programmes (MDPs) within NUS that are available to NUS College applicants. You may find out more about the MDPs here. Do take note that these have an additional selection for admission. Additionally, any NUS student (including NUS College students) may also construct/propose their own MDP by combining courses at NUS, though not all of them will be feasible and overloading may be necessary to complete the graduation requirements.

We are also pleased to partner with Sciences Po and Waseda University for the NUS-Sciences Po Double Degree Programme and Waseda-NUS Double Degree Programme. For these DDPs, you will obtain a degree from NUS and a degree from our partner university.

How will NUS College's curriculum work with Law/other special programmes?

Students pursuing specific degree programmes in NUS—for instance, Law, Engineering, Accountancy, PPE, the Double Degree programmes, to name a few examples—are waived from some of the curriculum requirements in NUS College. This is so that students pursuing these degrees will be able to integrate their curriculum with the requirements in NUS College. In general, students pursuing single degrees will not need to overload in order to complete both their degree requirements and NUS College requirements.

Why are some majors not applicable to NUS College?

As these courses have more specialised courses and fixed curriculum, it is difficult for students to complete both their major's courses as well as courses from NUS College's common curriculum without extending their period of study.

Must I declare my major before I enter NUS College or can I have an undeclared major?

At the point of application, you must indicate an intended major/choice of course at NUS College, which you will read at your respective home faculty or school (the exception being CHS students who have the flexibility of having an undeclared major for the first two years of studies). Subsequently, all students of NUS College will enjoy the flexibility to apply to transfer to another major compatible with the NUS College curriculum during their first four semesters of study, within the transfer windows stipulated by the NUS Office of Admissions.

What help do students receive in selecting classes?

All incoming freshmen will be assigned a peer mentor – a senior taking the same course as them (or as similar as possible since there are different multidisciplinary programmes). These mentors will guide you beginning from the very first course registration exercise and help you map out your study plan for your entire university journey. There are also multiple academic-related chat groups set up to allow students to seek more specific advice regarding certain courses or academic programmes. If you require more help, the NUS College faculty advisors are always there to advise you as well.

I am an RNS who has accepted an offer for NUS College, what is the procedure to request to switch majors before my course start year?

If you would like to request to switch majors before the admission application closing date relevant to you leading to your course start year, you will need to submit a fresh application to NUS for your desired new major(s). You may indicate your new choice(s) in your new application. If you have already accepted an offer for NUS College, you do not need to complete the application form for NUS College in your re-application.

If you are successful in your new application, the NUS Office of Admissions will offer the new major to you together with NUS College, unless the new major is not compatible with NUS College. If you are not successful, the offer that you have already accepted will remain.

I am an RNS who has accepted an offer for NUS College, but I have missed the admission application deadline relevant to me leading up to my course start year. What is the procedure to request for switching of courses before the start of Sem 1?

RESIDENTIAL LIVING

Where will NUS College students stay on campus?

Most NUS College students living in residence will stay in the NUS College residential buildings in West Wing (NUSC). In AY25/26, Others will be staying in Cinnamon Wing (NUSC) within Acacia College, until AY26/27. All NUSC Year 1s will be residing in West Wing (NUSC).

Is it mandatory to stay on campus if I join NUS College?

NUS College students must stay in a residence for two years during their candidature, one of which must be their first year of studies. This is because NUS College's foundational curriculum is designed within a two-year residential framework, where students can take advantage of in-house academic resources and develop a close-knit intellectual community through shared and common experiences.

Can international students stay in NUS College for more than two years?

All NUSC students will be required to spend two years in residence. Due to limited campus housing, while we are unable to guarantee accommodation for all four years, international students with no alternative Singapore residency options will be given priority in our planning and support.

However, do note that concurrent offers from NUS College and from the RC Programmes will not be made.
